Sandy may pack wintry wallop for Central Canada

Monster storm.

Forecasters warn of heavy rain, possibly snow in some parts as hurricane bears down on Ontario, Quebec

As the so-called Frankenstorm arrives on the doorstep of the U.S. eastern seaboard, the Canadian Hurricane Centre said Sunday that Sandy could bring winter weather to parts of Ontario.

Spokesman Bob Robichaud said southern and eastern Ontario and western Quebec could see 50 to 100 millimetres of rain late Monday and early Tuesday.

The storm is expected to interact with a stalled front over Ontario and could cause heavier rainfall — more than 100 millimetres — in areas adjacent to Lake Ontario and northward to Algonquin Park, the centre said.

Forecasters warn that rain

Another 'Perfect Storm'?

Sandy has been compared to the so-called "Perfect Storm" of 1991, which remained off the coast of New England, pushing huge waves and causing $200 million in damage.

- Sandy's effects are expected to be extensive and will affect areas well outside the storm's centre, said Canadian Hurricane Centre spokesman Bob Robichaud. He said Sandy's size also means it's likely the messy weather will loiter until next weekend.

- The Canadian government issued a news release Saturday saying it has received no reports of Canadians being killed or injured as a result of Sandy.

could change into snow over central Ontario, although it's too early to predict snowfall amounts.

"Snow is another thing we're going to have to consider with this thing, just because it's drawing in some cold air from the north," said Robichaud from Halifax during a media teleconference on Sunday.

The hurricane centre said parts of southern Ontario should brace for 100 km/h winds that could cause a bit of a mess.

Robichaud said the Maritimes could see 50 to 75 millimetres of rain that will linger until Halloween.

While the storm moved slowly northward over the weekend, its impact was already felt Sunday in a city along Quebec's Saguenay River, which leads into the St. Lawrence. The Emerald Princess cruise ship carrying 5,000 passengers en route to Florida docked in Saguenay, Que., to avoid its path.

Blast of winter. City urges patience and caution ahead of snow

A winter surprise is on the menu for commuters Monday morning as the first significant snowfall of the year is set to hit the region.

The light dusting of snow started falling Sunday, and Environment Canada was forecasting it would continue off and on into Monday.

On Sunday afternoon, city spokesperson Laura McNabb said crews were already out on the roads putting down salt and sand, especially on main routes.

"We have shifts working around the clock on Edmonton roads to get them up to good winter driving conditions," said McNabb.

She stressed, however, that good winter driving conditions would still require lots of patience from drivers in the morning.

"Good winter driving conditions are not the same as summer roads. So, people need to take some personal responsibility when they get out there on the roads, to go a little bit slower."

The city was asking people to leave extra time to get where they are going, make sure their windows were cleared off and to give snow-clearing equipment plenty of space.

"The first snowfall of the year is always a challenge because it is not something people are used to just yet," said McNabb. "It has to be a partnership. We do what we can to make the roads safe, but people have to take it easy out there."

Private trip. Missile attacks pre-empt tour of region for Thomas Lukaszuk and other Canadian community leaders

JEREMY NOLAÏS

Dangers of living in Israel's West Bank have become all too real for Alberta's deputy premier.

While preparing for his flight from Poland to Israel Thursday, deputy premier Thomas Lukaszuk said his itinerary continuously changed as more than 80 missiles struck Israel.

Lukaszuk is on a private tour of the region hosted by Friends of Simon Wiesenthal Center for Holocaust Studies. He told Metro via email Sunday he hopes the trip will give him a better understanding of hate crimes and bullying.

But the venture has not come without its share of tense moments.

In recent days, the fighting had subsided, Lukaszuk wrote, but on Sunday he was forced to alter travel plans once again after the city he was planning to visit was targeted by rockets local media reports claimed were fired by members of the Palestinian group Hamas.

"Instead, I entered the West Bank through the Ramallah crossing where my bus was pelted with stones," Lukaszuk wrote in the email.

"No one was harmed.... Unfortunately this is the reality of this region. There are territorial disputes, which result in frequent military interventions."

Lukaszuk said Sunday's scare has not led him to consider abandoning the tour, adding he plans to continue touring Jerusalem and Tel Aviv in the days ahead.

"Unfortunately, hate crimes and intolerance are not foreign to Alberta and Canada, and, as a politician, I find it important to understand the basis of hate (and) bias so that we can eradicate it in our communities," he added. "Hate appears in speech, actions and often manifests itself as bullying. Unchecked, it has a propensity to spread."

Cooking oil

Stove fire causes $270k blaze in townhouse

An unattended pot of cooking oil caused a fire in southwest Edmonton that caused $270,000 in damage early Sunday morning.

The fire broke out in a townhouse complex just north of Callingwood Road on 178 Street in the Ormsby Place neighbourhood.

Crews from the nearby fire station received several calls about the fire and a cab driver driving past who saw the fire actually walked into the hall, which is less than a block from the complex, according to fire department spokesperson Chrystal Coleman.

She said when the crews arrived they called in for more support right away.

"They upgraded it to a two-alarm fire, because the fire had extended into the ceiling through and into the adjacent suites," she said.

Most of the damage took place in the main suite, but the fire spread through the ceiling into adjacent townhouses.

Coleman said the four people in the house along with their neighbours in adjacent suites all got out safely.

Coleman said once the fire was fully extinguished around 6 a.m. investigators were able to determine the cooking oil had caused the blaze.

Drug-debt rumours. Human head linked to Ranfurly homicide

The human head found in an Edmonton back alley on Wednesday belongs to the homicide victim discovered 130 kilometres east of Edmonton, near Ranfurly, Edmonton police say.

Following an autopsy on the human remains, police ruled the death a homicide and confirmed speculation that the remains were connected to the body found near Ranfurly on Oct. 20.

While police have not released the name of the deceased, or cause of death, sources, including a crime blog (gangstersout.blogspot.ca) have identified the victim as Robert John (Bob) Roth of Lloydminster and state he was murdered for a drug debt. METRO

Dressing room upgrades. Cheaper options now proposed

RYAN TUMILTY

City administration has thinned the budget on proposed upgrades to Commonwealth Stadium after councillors balked at the first proposal.

The upgrades are required for the city's participation in the FIFA Women's World Cup in 2015.

Earlier this month city administration proposed spending just shy of $21 million on upgrades, including $12 million for dressing room improvements to meet

Breakdown

- Edmonton is one of six Canadian host cities as part of the FIFA Women's World Cup, which is the largest women's sporting event in the world.
- Replacing the Jumbotron, which was installed in 2000, will cost the city $5.1 million, replacing the speaker cluster in the stadium's centre will cost $2.5 million and repaving the parking lots will cost $1.6 million.

FIFA requirements.

They were also seeking funds to replace the facility's Jumbotron, the speakers and to repave two parking lots.

Administration now believes that existing space in the stadium can be repurposed for the games at a cost of $1.5 million.

Coun. Karen Leibovici said that is moving in the right direction, but she is still concerned about the cost of the Jumbotron.

"After 15 years is it that out of date? The last time I went to a football game it didn't seem like it was not working properly," she said.

Coun. Amarjeet Sohi said he is pleased costs have come down. He also said it is important not to tie all the upgrades to the games.

"We shouldn't link those upgrades to the games those are separate upgrades we need to do whether we get the games or not."

80 marijuana plants. Pot seized after west Edmonton garage fire

Edmonton firefighters got a little more than they bargained for after a weekend garage fire in west Edmonton.

Up to 80 marijuana plants were confiscated after being found when firefighters doused a blaze in the garage of a home on 96th Ave and 161 St late Saturday evening.

The fire was quickly brought under control and damage was kept to a minimum.

Fire officials do not yet have a cause or a damage estimate on the fire, as it's still under investigation.

Police are investigating after the discovery of the pot plants, but no charges have been laid in the incident.

As the family of 11-year-old Megan Wolitski remember a "beautiful, smart, and caring girl," her Grade 6 classmates in St. Paul are preparing to return to class on Tuesday.

Classrooms have been set up at nearby St. Paul Regional High School after the van came crashing through their school, and regular classes for Racette students are scheduled to resume Oct. 30, according to the St. Paul education website.

On Thursday morning, three students were airlifted to hospital in Edmonton for treatment of critical injuries after a minivan crashed into their Grade 6 classroom at approximately 9:15 a.m.

In a statement, the family of Megan, who died in hospital on Friday from injuries sustained in the crash, said she had a passion for ballet and jazz dancing, and was a Girl Guide who was planning a trip to Switzerland with her group.

"We would like Megan to be remembered for the incredible girl that she was," states the release.

"She loved her family and loved to take care of her sister and baby cousins. She touched so many lives with her kindness."

Meanwhile, Richard Edward Benson, 46, who was behind the wheel of the minivan, has a bail hearing scheduled for Monday in St. Paul.

The aftermath

- Aspiration. Megan Wolitski, who died on Friday, aspired to be a teacher like her mom and was a great swimmer.
- The driver. Richard Benson, the driver of the vehicle that crashed into the school, faces numerous charges.
- Charges. Benson is charged with three counts of dangerous driving causing bodily harm, resisting arrest and possessing a controlled substance.
- The town. St. Paul has a population of nearly 6,000 people and is located 200 kilometres northeast of Edmonton.

Millions brace for superstorm

Hurricane Sandy. U.S. northeast coastal areas evacuated as big storm collides with two other weather systems

Big U.S. cities from Washington to Boston braced Sunday for the onslaught of a superstorm that could menace some 50 million people in the most populated corridor of the U.S., with forecasters warning New York could be in particular peril.

"The time for preparing and talking is about over," Federal emergency management administrator Craig Fugate warned as Hurricane Sandy made its way up the Atlantic. "People need to be acting now."

Forecasters warned the storm could wreak havoc over 1,300 kilometres from the East Coast to the Great Lakes. States of emergency were declared from North Carolina to Connecticut. Airlines cancelled more than 5,000 flights, Amtrak began suspending passenger train service across the Northeast, and New York and Philadelphia moved to shut down their subways, buses and trains. They, along with Washing, Boston and Baltimore, also called off school for Monday.

U.S. President Barack Obama, who met with federal emergency officials Sunday, said Sandy is a "serious and big storm" that will be slow-moving and might take time to clear up. The government would "respond big and respond fast" after it hits, he said.

As rain began to fall over the Northeast, thousands of people in coastal areas from Maryland to Connecticut were ordered to clear out Sunday. That included 50,000 in Delaware alone and 30,000 in Atlantic City, where the city's 12 casinos were forced by Gov. Chris Christie to shut down. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hurricane Sandy was blamed for dozens of deaths in the Caribbean before it began churning up the Eastern Seaboard. ## Campaign trail. Obama and Romney rework schedule to dodge storm

U.S. President Barack Obama and Republican challenger Mitt Romney overhauled campaign plans Sunday to avoid a massive hurricane churning up the U.S. Atlantic coast nine days before Nov. 6 balloting in their extremely close race for the White House.

Romney scrapped Virginia appearances to join running mate Paul Ryan in Ohio, and Obama moved up his departure for Florida to Sunday evening to dodge Hurricane Sandy, which was forecast to begin whipping the Washington region with strong wind and drenching rain.

The Obama campaign said

The race

Heading into the final full week of the campaign, Democrats claim math is on the president's side. But Republicans insist Romney's got more momentum.

Storm death toll continues to climb

As Americans braced Sunday for Hurricane Sandy, Haiti was still suffering.

Officials raised the storm-related death toll across the Caribbean to 65, with 51 of those coming in Haiti, which was pelted by three days of constant rains that ended only on Friday.

As the rains stopped and rivers began to recede, authorities were getting a fuller idea of how much damage Sandy brought on Haiti. Bridges collapsed, banana crops were ruined, and homes were underwater. Officials said the death toll might still rise.

Last year, she left the city during Hurricane Irene only to be stranded at her parents' house in Maryland, which was much worse off. This year, she was determined to stay in her apartment.

"I'm getting scared a little," she said. But she added, "I'm much less alarmist now. Last year, I was really scared. This time, I'm like, it's just a lot of hubbub."

Kristen Stack, 25, who works in finance, said she decided around noon Sunday to finally stock up.

"I figure, it's better to be safe than sorry," she said, with a basket full of bananas, bread and water.

She lives in a zone where on Sunday Mayor Michael Bloomberg had ordered a mandatory evacuation.

"I haven't decided" whether to leave, she said. She said many friends had texted her with concerns and options for where to spend the night.

Her boyfriend, Brooklyn resident Zechariah Metzler, 27, who works in film, added, "I'm not concerned," but said stocking up was the smart option.

After a weekend of protests by thousands of citizens over pollution fears, a local Chinese government relented Sunday and agreed that a petrochemical factory would not be expanded,

The standoff in the city of Ningbo has highlighted the deep mistrust of the government in China. Should they continue, the demonstrations would upset an atmosphere of calm that leaders want for a transfer of power in the Communist Party leadership next month.

The protest had swelled over the weekend and led to clashes between citizens and

Outside the government offices, an official tried to read the statement, but was drowned out by shouts demanding the mayor step down. ## Syria. Ceasefire broken with bombing of rebel areas over Muslim holiday

A Syrian man sits on a hospital trolley suffering partial loss of memory after being shot in the head by a sniper in Aleppo, Syria. NARCISO CONTRERAS/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Syria's air force fired missiles and dropped barrel bombs on rebel strongholds while opposition fighters attacked regime positions Sunday, flouting a UN-backed ceasefire that was supposed to quiet fighting over a long holiday weekend but never took hold.

The failure to push through a truce so limited in its ambitions — just four days — has been a sobering reflection of the international community's inability to ease 19 months of bloodshed in Syria. It also suggests that the stalemated civil war will drag on, threatening to draw in Syria's neighbours, such as Turkey, Lebanon and Jordan. "This conflict has now taken a dynamic of its own, which should be worrying to everyone," said Salman Shaikh, director of the Brookings Doha Center think-tank.

The UN tried to broker a halt to fighting over the four-day Eid al-Adha Muslim feast that began on Friday, one of the holiest times of the Islamic calendar. But the truce was violated almost immediately after it was supposed to take effect, the same fate other cease-fires in Syria have met.

Activists said at least 110 people were killed Sunday, a toll similar to previous daily casualty tolls. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Suicide bomber targets church

A suicide bomber rammed an SUV loaded with explosives into a Catholic church holding mass on Sunday in Kaduna, northern Nigeria, killing at least seven people and wounding more than 100 others in an attack that sparked reprisal killings in the city, authorities and witnesses said. As rescuers tried to reach the wounded, angry youths armed with machetes and clubs beat to death two Muslims passing by the ruins of St. Rita's Catholic church. #### Sao Paulo sees 28 deaths in four days

Police in Brazil's largest city say the metropolitan Sao Paulo area is suffering a wave of violence that left 28 dead over four days.

Police told the Estado de Sao Paulo newspaper that five people died and 12 were injured in shootings between Saturday night and Sunday morning. The newspaper reported that this was the fourth night in a row with multiple murders. There were 28 people killed by Sunday morning. Police told the newspaper that most of the victims died in drive-by shootings by men on motorcycles. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Taxpayer savings from registry repeal unclear

Long gun. 2008 RCMP report quotes estimated savings that add up to a fraction of registry's operating cost

The Conservative government that championed the end of what it calls the "wasteful and ineffective" long-gun registry can't say exactly how much the registry's repeal will save taxpayers.

More than seven months after the registry was officially ended in every province and territory except Quebec, the RCMP is citing a 2008 report — based on a 2004 costing model — to suggest the registry's repeal will save somewhere between $1.5 million and $4 million a year.

The registry of all firearms cost $7.7 million to operate in 2010-11, the last full year for which information is available. So why are the projected savings so small?

Neither the RCMP nor the public safety minister's office

Range officer Patrick Deegan aims a rifle at a private range in Calgary in September 2010. The Conservative government that championed the end of what it calls the "wasteful and ineffective" long-gun registry isn't saying exactly how much the registry's repeal will save taxpayers. JEFF MCINTOSH/THE CANADIAN PRESS will offer an explanation, although the ongoing registration of handguns and restricted weapons must account for some of the difference.

"We have nothing else to say on this issue other than what we have provided you," RCMP spokesman Sgt. Greg Cox responded in an email after almost a week of correspondence with The Canadian Press.

Nor is the RCMP able to provide any cost estimate of destroying the gun-registry data, saying only that it will be absorbed within the national police force's budget.

"The staff who are working on the project to destroy the data are RCMP employees who are also working on other day-to-day tasks," Cox wrote.

Francoise Boivin, NDP justice critic, believes the government's inability to provide precise costing says a great deal about years of gun-registry spin.

"If your accountant was answering that way you would fire him on the spot," Boivin said in an interview.

"They've got all the information. Problem is, they don't divulge it because they're worried it might not prove exactly the point they've been stressing over and over."

West Coast earthquake. Vancouverites stock up on survival gear just in case

First-aid kits, radios and survival gear flew off Vancouver store shelves the day after a 7.7-magnitude earthquake near Haida Gwaii shook nerves across B.C.

Though few reported feeling the earthquake in the city, Vancouverites rushed to outdoor and hardware stores Sunday to stock up on just-in-case provisions.

"As soon as I saw the news coming in on Twitter about Haida Gwaii, I thought, 'I've been meaning to do this for years,'" said Vancouverite Paul Nixey. "It's always that thing that slips to the bottom of your list." Nixey, 29, bought the last first-aid kit at one Home Depot in the city. There were three empty shelves where the medical kits used to sit, he said.

At the Mountain Equipment Co-op in Vancouver, staff said many customers were buying radios — an item on the province's earthquake-preparation-kit list — and asking for directions to the first-aid section.

Grace Hiebert, 32, has a half-made earthquake kit at home, but decided to complete it after Saturday's quake.

"It made it more real, that it could happen," she said as she browsed MEC's aisles for water containers, survival blankets, candles and dry food.

Hiebert was once evacuated from a fire and knows how stressful emergency situations can be.

"You're panicking so you don't know what to take, you're grabbing random things," she said. "I know for myself having them all in one place will reduce the panic."

The Haida Gwaii is an archipelago about 700 km north of Vancouver.

Alabama voters get another chance to dump segregation

Amending history.

Critics say the revised proposal still has flaws and needs to do more

Segregation ended decades ago in Alabama, swept away by the civil rights marchers who faced down police dogs and fire hoses in the early '60s. But segregation is still mandated by the state's constitution, and voters on Nov. 6 will get only their second chance in years to eliminate an anachronism that still exists on paper.

Election Day in this deep South state could be the day Alabama amends history.

Amendment 4 — the proposal to delete the constitution's archaic language affirming segregation — is tucked amid routine issues of sewers, bonds and city boundaries on a crowded Election Day ballot. It's a striking call to see if Alabama will repeat what it did in 2004, when the state narrowly voted to keep the outdated and racially controversial language, bringing national ridicule upon the state.

The second time won't be any easier than the first because Alabama's two largest black political groups are urging a no vote. They say the proposed changes would wipe out some racially charged language, but would retain segregation-era language saying there is no constitutional right to a public education in Alabama. And they've been joined by the state's main teachers' group in refusing to go along.

Amendment 4 would excise outdated language about poll taxes and separate schools that many consider racist. But the critics say the language being proposed as a substitute undermines funding for public education by reaffirming that there is no right to a public education at taxpayers' expense in Alabama.

"It is a wolf in sheep's clothing. It seems so good but is so bad," said black Democratic Sen. Hank Sanders of Selma, a New South founder.

Retired University of Alabama law professor Martha Morgan, an expert on Alabama's constitution, says voting no on Nov. 6 is likely to give the state another black eye. But she said it's better to get a black eye than "to inflict a mortal wound to public education by taking away the right to public education."

Amendment 4

Senator stands by proposal

Supporters of Amendment 4 say retaining the two outdated provisions from an era when African-Americans attended separate schools from whites sends a harmful message. They argue that it could drive off businesses from a state struggling to lower an 8.3 per cent unemployment rate that remains above the national average.

Amendment 4's sponsor, Republican state Sen. Arthur Orr of Decatur, said he knows other states have used the racist language against Alabama when competing for industries.

"It's important symbolically to send a message to our sister states and to the world that Alabama is a different place than it was 50 years ago," he said.

Orr's proposal has drawn support from Republican Gov. Robert Bentley, Alabama's chief recruiter for new industry.

Myanmar violence forces 22,000 more to flee: UN official

Refugee camps. Latest unrest pushes total displaced to 100,000 since sectarian clashes broke out in June

Victims of Myanmar's latest explosion of Muslim-Buddhist violence fled to already packed displacement camps along the country's western coast Sunday, with a top UN official saying the unrest has forced more than 22,000 people from their homes.

State television reported the casualty toll has risen to 84 dead and 129 injured over the past week in nine townships in Rakhine state. The figures have not been broken down by ethnic group, but New-York-based Human Rights Watch has said Rohingya Muslims bore the brunt of the unrest and the true death toll may be far higher.

On Sunday, wooden boats carrying some refugees arrived outside the state capital, Sittwe. The people trudged to the nearby Thechaung camp, a place already home to thousands of Rohingya who took refuge there after a previous wave of violence in June.

"My house was burned to ashes and I have no money left," said 42-year-old fisherman Maung Myint, who arrived on a boat carrying 40 other people. Another Muslim refugee said she fled her village, Kyaukphyu, on Thursday after attackers set her home on fire.

Human Rights Watch released dramatic satellite imagery of Kyaukphyu on Saturday showing a vast, predominantly Rohingya swath of the village in ashes. The destruction included more than 800 buildings and floating barges.

It was unclear what sparked the latest clashes, but ill will between Muslims and Buddhists in Rakhine state goes back decades. Although many Rohingya have lived in Myanmar for generations, they are still seen as foreign intruders who came from Bangladesh to steal scarce land.

The e-book plot thickens

Suddenly, her entire collection was gone.

Consumers don't have full ownership rights of their digital purchases

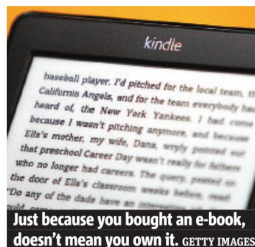

If all the books on your shelf suddenly disappeared, you'd probably say you'd been robbed.

But when a Norwegian woman lost access to her Kindle books without warning, she learned she had never owned them in the first place.

Linn Jorget Nygaard, 30, an IT consultant from Oslo, said the debacle began two weeks ago when her Kindle stopped working. She later discovered she was locked out of her Kindle account, and could not access her library.

In what appeared to be an administrative error, Nygaard was told her account had been closed for violating Amazon's terms of service, and she was reminded that her e-books were not her property.

Nygaard's account was restored Monday, and Amazon is shipping her a new Kindle. But the story serves as a reminder that consumers don't actually own their e-books or other digital media. They are licensing them — and the retailer can yank them back at any time.

"It's a real wake-up call for consumers," said David Fewer, an intellectual property lawyer and director of the Canadian Internet Policy and Public Interest Clinic.

When you buy a copy of The Great Gatsby from a bookstore, it becomes your property — you can loan it to a friend, sell it in a garage sale, hand it down to your kids.

But Amazon, Kobo Books and Apple iTunes state you cannot share or resell the content, and access can be revoked at any time. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Dragon brings back astronauts' urine samples

An unmanned space capsule carrying medical samples from the International Space Station splashed down in the Pacific Ocean Sunday, completing the first official private interstellar shipment under a billion-dollar contract with NASA.

The supply ship brought back nearly 900 kilograms of science experiments and old station equipment. Perhaps the most eagerly awaited cargo is nearly 500 frozen samples of blood and urine collected by station astronauts over the past year.

The Dragon is the only delivery ship capable of returning items now that NASA's shuttles are retired to museums.

The privately owned California-based SpaceX company launched the capsule three weeks ago full of groceries and clothes — ice cream as well as fresh apples were especially appreciated by the station residents, now back up to a full crew of six. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PC, tablet buyers aren't abuzz over Windows 8: Poll

Radical redesign. New OS is most significant overhaul since 1995

Microsoft bills Windows 8 as a "re-imagining" of the personal computer market's dominant operating system, but the company still has a lot of work to do before the makeover captures the imagination of most consumers, based on the results of a recent poll by The Associated Press and GfK.

The phone survey of nearly 1,200 adults in the U.S. found 52 per cent hadn't even heard of Windows 8 leading up to Friday's release of the redesigned software.

Among the people who knew something about the new operating system, 61 per cent had little or no interest in buying a new laptop or desktop computer running on Windows 8, according to the poll. And only about a third of people who've heard about the new system believe it will be an improvement (35 per cent). Chris Dionne of Waterbury, Conn., falls into that camp. The 43-year-old engineer had already seen Windows 8 and it didn't persuade him to abandon or upgrade his Hewlett-Packard laptop running on Windows 7, the previous version of the operating system released in 2009.

"I am not real thrilled they are changing things around," Dionne said. "Windows 7 does everything I want it to. Where is the return on my investment to learn a new OS?"

Microsoft usually releases a new version of Windows every two or three years, but it's different this time around. Windows 8 is the most radical redesign of the operating system since 1995.

Microsoft is hoping the way Windows 8 looks and operates will appeal to the growing number of people embracing the convenience of smartphones and tablets.

Wireless market. Nokia pins hopes on Windows Phone 8

For Nokia, it comes down to this: Is Microsoft's new phone software going to get it back in the smartphone race, or is it going to be too late?

After being the top seller of cellphones in the world for 14 years, Nokia failed to meet the challenge when Apple in 2007 introduced the dazzling iPhone that caught the imagination of design-conscious customers and rattled mobile markets.

The Finnish company hit a downward spiral that has led to shrinking sales and market share, plant closures, thousands of layoffs and downgrades by credit agencies to junk status.

On Friday, research firm IDC said that in the July-to-September period, Nokia slid for the first time off the list of the top five smartphone makers in the world. It's still the second-largest maker of phones overall, but sales of non-smartphones are shrinking across the industry, and there's little profit there.

The ailing company's CEO, Stephen Elop, sees Microsoft's new Windows Phone 8 software as a chance to reverse that trend, describing it as a catalyst for the new models.

Analysts are calling this a make-or-break moment for Nokia. "Nokia is placing a huge bet on Microsoft and if the gamble doesn't pay off, the losses can be high," said Neil Mawston from Strategy Analytics, near London.

Chinese premier's family denies it has $2.7B in assets

Lawyers have denied a report that Chinese Premier Wen Jiabao's family has amassed $2.7 billion US in "hidden riches," a Hong Kong newspaper said Sunday.

The New York Times said in a lengthy article Friday that most of the alleged wealth was accumulated by Wen's relatives after he rose to high office in 2002.

Hong Kong's South China Morning Post newspaper published a letter Sunday it said was written by two lawyers for Wen's family, Bai Tao and Wang Weidong, saying that the Times' report was untrue.

It said family members have not conducted any illegal business activities, do not hold shares in any companies, and that Wen has never been involved in his family's business activities or allowed those activities to influence his policies. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WEST EDMONTON MALL BRINGS BEST TO THE SURFACE

URBAN COMPASS
Terence Harding
edmonton@metronews.ca

I am not a huge fan of the castle of consumerism on the west end of this city. Its creation helped gut the downtown and is one of the reasons that even on a Saturday there are very few people in the core.

For the most part, I just find West Edmonton Mall too much. There are just too many people and too many cars for me to find shopping there a pleasant experience.

So it was a great surprise to me to find myself on the Whitemud driving toward a place I usually do everything I can to avoid.

What was it that was taking me there, you might ask. It wasn't shoes or a suit, gambling or any form of entertainment. It wasn't even the opportunity to buy strange-looking foods, with even stranger-sounding names.

It was technology. But not just any technology. It was new technology. Technology that was only available at WEM. Not only was I surprised to be going to WEM, it was an even bigger surprise for me to be going to look at a piece of Microsoft hardware.

For most of my life, I have been an Apple fan, though not of the iPad. I wanted something for creation, not just consumption and the playing of Angry Birds.

As it turns out, Microsoft chose WEM as one of its few locations in Canada where people could actually have a hands-on experience with its new Surface tablet.

If you don't live in Vancouver, Toronto or here, the only other option you have is to purchase one online. Not much of a tactile experience of something that is meant to be very tactile. The Surface sports a touch screen after all.

As it turned out, I ended up talking to a Microsoft employee based in Edmonton about why we were chosen.

The foot traffic and shopping density in the mall were the reasons why we got the Surface. I guess there are some good things that come from having a retail behemoth in our midst. But what was even more pleasant was finding out how upset Calgarians are that no Microsoft holiday popup stores are slated for Cowtown.

Given the lineups at the store and the numbers of tablets sold since its launch, it would appear that Microsoft made an astute business decision.

And what decision did I make? Well I wrote this on my new Surface.

Getting older rocks

Happy Birthday, from Billy Idol

A Seattle man says that having Billy Idol play his 26th birthday party made for the greatest night of his life.

Michael Henrichsen spent two years persuading the British rock icon to play his party, and it finally paid off at the packed Showbox SoDo club on Friday.

First, Idol guitarist Steve Stevens played him Happy Birthday in the middle of a solo. Then Idol called Henrichsen onto the stage for a rendition of the song.

Henrichsen's '80s cover band even got to play the opening act.

Idol said that Henrichsen's effort stood out from other fans' requests because his campaign involved four Billy Idol Aid charity concerts that raised $13,000 for the Northwest Harvest food bank and the American Red Cross.

Idol says that agreeing to play Henrichsen's party in Seattle might help fans see another side of him.

Optical illusion of wrecked vehicle

Check out the paint job on this "car." Body-painting artist Emma Hack used 17 naked men and women covered in blue, black and silver paint to make a jigsaw puzzle of a mangled vehicle. The pile of expertly placed bodies is part of a campaign for Australia's Motor Accident Commission to curb speeding. METRO

Artist's perspective

"Technically, it's probably the most difficult job I have ever done. It's quite magical how it's turned out."

Body-painting artist Emma Hack, from Adelaide, Australia, spent 18 hours creating the car. She famously painted singers Gotye and Kimbra for the hit song Somebody That I Used To Know.

Sketchy business

How she started ... a photo and pencil

Hack began with a photo of a crashed car and planned her project by sketching over it — to determine the number of people needed and the position of their contorted bodies. She said: "Some were really obvious, such as the tires, face as side mirror and the front bumper as the arm. Then I started piling up the bodies to create shape." METRO

Disney's Wreck-It Ralph revels in retro gaming culture, assembling a host of familiar old-school characters from Bowser to Q-bert. It just may provide gamers with their Toy Story moment. While direct adaptations of button-mashing bestsellers often end up as bargain bin rejects, when the focus broadens to the gaming scene itself, plenty of candidates for extended play begin to emerge.

Gamer culture levels up

Tron (1982)

A sentient computer program shoots a laser at Jeff Bridges and sucks him inside its mainframe into a digitized world where programs are people who wear glow-in-the-dark hockey helmets and everybody gets a mini Captain America Frisbee shield. This virtual world, which presaged the Internet and the personal computing boom, was a visual tour de force.

The Wizard (1989)

Fred Savage and his video game savant brother hitch and hustle their way across America en route to a video game championship in L.A. with future indie rock queen Jenny Lewis (Rilo Kiley) in tow. While E.T. wrote the book on product placement, with the stranded alien developing a craving for Reese's Pieces, The Wizard took merch integration to a whole new level, promoting a flurry of Nintendo titles and the Universal Studios tour while seamlessly spinning a rollicking tween-age fantasy.

Grandma's Boy (2006)

While critics were foaming at the mouth to dump on this sophomoric R-rated romp about a 35-year-old video game tester who moves in with his granny (Doris Roberts), the Golden Girls meet American Pie gross-out comedy holds up quite well on the gags per minute metre compared with Happy Madison Production's most high grossing fare. High Times magazine even feted this budding cult classic with a trio of awards, including the coveted Best Stoner Movie.

Scott Pilgrim vs. the World (2010)

Sheepish yet irrepressibly endearing in a neo-nebbish hipster kind of way, Michael Cera (basically playing himself) sets out to defeat his fuchsia-haired girlfriend's seven evil exes who might as well be video game bosses. By injecting a litany of gaming tropes into an indie rock love story, this comic-book adaptation is not only an epic nerdgasm, but it just might spawn a new sub-genre.

Fewer musicians rocking the vote this year

Election. Singers raising awareness about the issues rather than the candidate who supports them

PAT HEALY
Metro World News in Boston

Many Americans are asking themselves if they are better off than they were four years ago. Is it still easy for them to attend politically inspired music events as they did during Barack Obama's initial bid for the presidency?

During the past two election cycles, rockers and rappers were stumping hard for their favourite candidates. But in 2012, only a handful seem to be rocking the vote.

A few days before he began playing special sets in the swing states of Ohio, Iowa and Virginia, Bruce Springsteen let his views on the upcoming election be known. Though his left-leaning opinions came as a surprise to very few, his words contained one interesting nugget as to why there aren't as many people joining in a chorus to get the youth to the polls.

"This presidential election is different than the last one because President Obama has a four-year record to run on," wrote Springsteen on his website. "Last time around, he carried with him a tremendous amount of hope and expectations. Unfortunately, due to the economic chaos the previous administration left him with, and the extraordinary intensity of the opposition, it turned into a really rough ride. But through grit, determination and focus, the president has been able to do a great many things that many of us deeply support."

That "really rough ride" could be why only a few musicians have hit the stage for their candidate this time around. Acts such as James Taylor, The Walkmen, The National and Jim James of My Morning Jacket have played election events for Obama, while Kid Rock played a set before a Romney rally in Colorado earlier this week. But the message of hope that characterized Obama's 2008 bid for the Oval Office enchanted far more musicians into lending a hand.

Earlier this week, a number of politically active women, including musicians Zoe Kravitz, Carrie Brownstein and Sia, posted a webcam montage of themselves lip-synching to Lesley Gore's 1964 hit, You Don't Own Me, as text flashes across the screen with this message: "Mitt Romney and the Republican Party plan to overturn Roe v. Wade, immediately defund Planned Parenthood, shut down the nation's family planning program and repeal the affordable care act. Let's send them a clear message on Nov. 6." At the end of the video, Gore says to the camera, "I recorded 'You Don't Own Me' in 1964, and it's hard for me to believe, but we're still fighting for the same things we were then."

Interestingly, the political message is more strongly "don't vote for Romney" than it is "do vote for Obama."

what you're going to get. Mr. Obama has brought a lot of change and a lot of people don't like change. A lot of people are voting emotionally, or out of anger, and often they end up with the president who's going to make things worse for them."

But like many of the other artists playing election shows, Rollins says what is more important than who you vote for is that you actually vote.

"It's alarming to me that a large portion of people in this country who can vote don't vote," he says.

Capitalism tour

Rollins rants

Henry Rollins is doing spoken word shows as part of his Capitalism Tour leading up to the election. Though he tells Metro the tour is bipartisan, he isn't shy with his opinions.

"Look at the numbers, look at the house bills," says the former Black Flag singer. "I don't listen to the vitriol, I look at the bills. Romney wants to get rid of Planned Parenthood, which is an amazing institution. That tells me a lot about you. You're going to get

Civil rights. Having FUN. with marriage equality

Another group focusing on the issues is the organizers of Freedom to Love Now! A Concert for Marriage Equality.

The show, to be held Tuesday at New York City's Beacon Theatre, features Rufus Wainwright, FUN. and Dove-man (a.k.a. Thomas Bartlett), who organized the show with friends Brice Rosenbloom and Simon Rentner.

Rentner says there's a reason they made the show about the political issue rather than a politician.

"The whole notion of having the freedom to marry and what that represents is kind of a conservative value. There are a lot of log cabin Republicans and you can't really pigeonhole who is into the idea of granting the freedom to marry for all people. ... But obviously we needed and wanted to do this concert a week before the election because this election will have the opportunity to influence countless lives."

Rentner stresses that the show is about shedding light on what he says should be seen as a civil rights issue. It's also about fun — or FUN., rather.

"Given the apathetic climate that we sometimes feel, especially during the re-election year of a candidate, hopefully [FUN.] can be a galvanizing force, especially for the kids." PAT HEALY/METRO

Madonna booed after touting Obama at New Orleans concert

Madonna drew boos and triggered a walkout by several concert-goers after she touted President Barack Obama on her MDNA Tour in New Orleans.

The Material Girl asked during Saturday night's performance: "Who's registered to vote?" She added: "I don't care who you vote for as long as you vote for Obama."

Drawing boos in touting Obama over Republican Mitt Romney, Madonna followed: "Seriously, I don't care who you vote for ... Do not take this privilege for granted. Go vote."

Madonna is often outspoken. Some Colorado fans, mindful of a mass shooting there, complained she used a fake gun to shoot a masked gunman in a recent concert act in Denver.

A July Madonna concert in Paris drew ire when a video showed a swastika on a politician's forehead.

Bonjour to this Bond belle

Bérénice Marlohe.

Stunning French star talks about kissing 007, her semi-naked scenes and relating to her predecessors

ROMINA MCGUINNNESS
Metro World News

Bérénice who? You're forgiven if you don't recognize the name of the latest Bond girl — the French actress, 33, is known, if at all, for a few TV roles in France. She didn't break out until moving to Los Angeles, where she was cast as the latest baddie in Skyfall. Our health and lifestyle reporter — also from France — got her on the phone for a little girl talk.

When you got the part of Séverine, did you think, 'Wow, I'm a Bond Girl, I must be super hot?'

Not at all, I find that kind of reaction really stupid. I'm amazed at how people think they can judge me as an actress based on the pictures they have seen of me. It's very disturbing when people assume becoming a Bond girl is a beauty contest. It really isn't. I'm an actress. I auditioned for the part. The Bond girl is a concept. So when people ask me how it feels to be one, I have trouble taking it all in. Maybe the fact I got to interpret such a mythical role will hit me in a few years' time.

Let's look at what former Bond Girls have had to say. Eva Green—of Casino Royale—told one newspaper that she fought to keep her clothes on in the shower scene, saying, 'They wanted me to strip down to my panties. We had a good fight about that.' You, on the other hand, seem to have no problem getting naked.

Well you can't see very much!

So you didn't say: 'I don't want to be naked in the shower.'

I'm not very comfortable with nudity, so initially, I wasn't exactly thrilled. ... I asked my agent — 'What do we do with this? How naked do I need to be?' A Bond Girl is a combination of power, a masculinity, femininity and animality. I probably could have been like, 'Do I really need to get naked?' but I don't think anyone cared. It was more about the substance of the performance."

Is James Bond a good kisser?

Yes! Not only is he a good kisser, he's also handsome and strong.

Bond Girl Barbara Bach from The Spy Who Loved Me called Bond "a chauvinist pig who uses girls to shield him against bullets." Is that true?

I'm the one who had to protect our darling Bond in Skyfall. He used to be a bit of a player, but he's become more subtle when seducing women, less of a flirt. His character would be a little bit grotesque had he never evolved.

Former Bond girl Jill St. John from Diamonds Are Forever said: "It's not easy being a Bond woman. You have to stay in shape when you're in a bikini all those months." Can you relate to that?

Nobody pressured me to be a certain weight. But the thing is, I have a huge appetite. I'm not one of those women who are like, 'I eat loads!' when in fact, they eat nothing but salad. Eating is one of my greatest passions in life. So yes, I had to force myself to go out for a run every once in a while.

A new breed of Bond girl

Naomie Harris. Fills famous role, but as a tough MI6 agent

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

In Skyfall, British actress Naomie Harris — best known for 28 Days Later and Pirates of the Caribbean — delivers a new kind of Bond Girl, a highly trained MI6 field agent who can hold her own alongside James Bond. She takes a risky rifle shot at Bond (Daniel Craig) as he tussles with a baddie atop a train, and gives 007 a rather intimate shave. So naturally we wanted a few more details.

That shaving scene ends a bit ambiguously. Do Eve and James...?

Consummate? No, no, no. It was purposely that they have a phone call and it interrupts. So nothing happened.

As the opening sequence shows, Eve is a pretty tough field agent. But then she decides to take herself off of active duty.

I wanted to get across that she's someone who's in the midst of all the danger, in the midst of it all and actually loving it, not afraid, just loving it. You know, exhilarated and loving it. So this decision to no longer be in the field is hugely momentous for her. So I had to do a lot of soul-searching to find out what does that mean to Eve, how does she feel about it?

You've said that after getting this role, you had to keep quiet about it for two months before the official announcement. That can't be fun.

It's really difficult. I was so happy, and I wanted to tell everybody. And to be honest as well, it made it difficult because I also started to doubt it. You can't tell anyone, and you start to think, "Have I really got it? Did that really happen? Or was it a dream?" It started to feel like that. It was only when I started to have all of the training stuff, then I was like, "Well, they're investing a lot of money in training me and taking me to gun ranges, so it must be real."

Did you grapple at all with the legacy of Bond Girls before taking this role?

I felt really fine with it, actually. I think normally because the actresses who are cast are just being introduced to the world, and so they haven't got a body of work beforehand, I think it can be scary because it can be easy to become typecast. But because I've done such completely different stuff, I didn't feel like that was a problem.

Christina Aguilera throws Simon Cowell under the bus

Christina Aguilera doesn't mince words when it comes to her feelings about X Factor host Simon Cowell.

As she tells the Hollywood Reporter, Aguilera used Cowell's earlier gig as a judge on American Idol as an example of how not to behave when it came to her own judging duties on The Voice, her reality singing competition show.

"I saw the commercials early on of American Idol or Simon," Aguilera remembers. "I was like, 'Man, that's not what it's about.' I didn't want to treat people like that. I wanted to do The Voice to show that we can be positive. We don't have to knock people down."

Emma Roberts

Pretty Woman finds a sequel

While Emma Roberts has done her best to dodge comparisons between herself and famous aunt Julia Roberts, she chose this year's Halloween costume as the best time to highlight the connection.

Emma stepped out over the weekend done up as Julia's famous character from Pretty Woman, complete with blonde wig, miniskirt and midriff-bearing tank-top, according to Us Weekly.

She hit up a Halloween party in the get-up on the arm of her boyfriend, American Horror Story star Evan Peters, who was dressed as a cowboy.

Justin Timberlake
Talking about a scandalous video that appeared at his wedding

Justin Timberlake has finally spoken out about the infamous video of L.A. homeless people wishing him and bride Jessica Biel well, played at his wedding.

"I think we can all agree that it was distasteful, even though that was not its intention. I want to be very clear ... I am not defending the video," Timberlake writes on his website.

"I had no knowledge of its existence. I had absolutely zero contribution

While not taking responsibility for the video — made by a friend as a gag wedding gift — Timberlake is still offering an apology.

"I want to say that I am deeply sorry to anyone who was offended by the video," he writes. "My friends are good people. This was clearly a lapse in judgment, which I'm sure no one who is reading this is exempt from."

Male model claims to be dating Joe Simpson

A 21-year-old aspiring model named Bryce Chandler Hill has reportedly been making the rounds in West Hollywood bragging that he's been carrying on an affair with Joe Simpson, the recently divorced dad of singers Jessica and Ashlee Simpson, according to Radar Online.

"Joe Simpson being outed by the National Enquirer was no surprise to the gay community in Hollywood. Bryce has been bragging about hooking up with Joe for a while now," a source tells the website. "Bryce claims he's been dating Joe for roughly a year and absolutely loves to boast about it because he loves being the centre of attention. He's also been quick to tell anyone that will listen that he's using Joe to climb the showbiz ladder."

The great snack debate

IT'S ALL RELATIVE
Kathy Buckworth,
kathybuckworth.com

In the 21st Century, the "snack" shelves in every grocery store across North America and Europe are taking up exponentially more real estate. And in response, the occasions on which it is deemed necessary or desirable to have a snack has grown exponentially as well. For instance, it is no longer acceptable to turn up at the following events without a snack for your children:

1) The neighbourhood park. Even if the park is two minutes away and, judging by previous visits, your visit will last for a grand total of six minutes. In fact, I now believe that the whole purpose of going to the park is to eat a snack outdoors.

2) Any child's sporting event. Soccer, baseball, hockey — all must include not only a snack, but a "snack schedule." I did an informal Twitter poll and found out that 99 per cent of moms don't support the idea of the structured snack, yet somehow that one per cent who do turn up at every single sports teams orientation meeting, spreadsheet in hand. I am now starting an informal "Stop the Snack Madness" campaign for my children's sports. The kids are not speaking to me, but it's worth the price.

Now's the time to talk prostate

November. It's almost time for mustache-growing month, a movement in support for prostate cancer

life@metronews.ca

When fathers and sons bond over a cold drink and have "the talk," the talk is usually the awkward but necessary conversation about sex. While the scope of health wisdom dads dole out to their male offspring may also extend to the virtues of hand washing, regular exercise and sunscreen application, it is double-eagle rare that the just-for-men cancer will come up. But thanks to Movember, this is changing fast.

"Men typically don't talk about below-the-belt issues," says Rebecca von Goetz, executive vice-president of Prostate Cancer Canada. "However, it is becoming much more common place to have discussions about prostate cancer and to ensure that at one's annual physical, a discussion about the risks of this disease are addressed."

According to the latest Canadian Cancer Society statistics,

Movember is encouraging the prostate cancer discussions among fathers and sons. ISTOCK

26,500 new cases of prostate cancer will be diagnosed in 2012. That makes prostate cancer the leading incident cancer ahead of lung, colorectal and breast cancer. And with 4,000 deaths a year nationally, it's the third leading cause of cancer mortality among men.

Still, talking isn't always easy. "Having a discussion about prostate cancer can be a psychological minefield," explains Dr. Daniela Friedman, a University of Waterloo graduate, now an associate professor specializing in cancer communication at the University of South Carolina's Arnold School of Public Health.

In her work on family communication and prostate cancer, Friedman has found that the recent controversy surrounding screening using the prostate specific antigen (PSA) test has complicated the prostate cancer conversation. False positives are frequent and the PSA can also detect cancers that are too slow growing to be a threat in the patient's lifetime.

Over-diagnosing these slow growing cancers can lead to bleeding and infection from biopsies and may cause erectile dysfunction and incontinence. "This is a disease people associate with impotence and losing one's (manhood)," says Friedman. "I find that many men are embarrassed ... especially when it comes to the digital rectal exam."

In her 2012 paper, It Takes Two to Talk about Prostate Cancer, published in the American Journal of Men's Health, Friedman examines the heightened embarrassment men feel when talking about prostate cancer.

One of the men in her research study commented that male pride gets in the way, surmising that this is why Michael Jackson probably was always holding onto his reproductive area during performances.

Movember is all about making guys more comfortable opening up about the walnut sized gland located just beneath the bladder. "[The event] encourages men to band together — fathers and sons included — and the likelihood of a prostate cancer conversation is heightened as they share their efforts in growing their moustaches to raise awareness and funds for men's health," adds von Goetz.

What does 'it all' mean? Today's women have a different definition

What exactly does 'having it all' mean to you? ISTOCK

It's just a job.
Study shows women rank happiness over hierarchy when envisioning job success

JULIA WEST
life@metronews.ca

The idea of "having it all" varies from person to person, of course. However, a new study on women in the workplace by LinkedIn and Citi found that "only 17 per cent of women [surveyed] stated that reaching the height of success in their field was a factor in their assessment of 'having it all.' For the majority, success was defined by a job that they enjoy."

For many of the women surveyed, marriage and children weren't tied up in the definition of "all": 36 per cent of respondents weren't concerned about marriage and 27 per cent didn't cite children.

"Millennial women are putting off having children until they are nearly 30," explains Amy Lynch, a consultant who works with BridgeWorks, an organization that helps businesses connect with different generations of employees and customers. "They seek work-life integration. Millennials don't see hard divides between work time and family time."

Ultimately, no matter what having it all means, most of us are counting on it at some point: Only four per cent of women who participated in the survey felt that having it all was unattainable. Julia Hartz, co-founder and president of Eventbrite, agrees to some extent. "What I've found," says Hartz, "is while I think you can have it all, you can't have it all at the same time."

Teresa Kruze

From a young age, Christine had always loved working with children, and went to university to become a teacher. After taking a criminal law course she found the courage to change her focus and began studying to be a lawyer.

She obtained her BA in criminology and criminal justice from Carleton University, her Canadian law degree from the University of Ottawa and her American law degree from Michigan State University, ultimately landing an articling position at the Crown law office, criminal division in Toronto.

Today she is a Federal Crown prosecutor in Toronto, but has also kept her dream of teaching alive by being a course instructor at the University of Guelph.

I knew I was on my way when... I was offered a job as a prosecutor right out of the interview.

My first day was very overwhelming and exciting because I was parachuted into the busiest criminal courthouse in the country. I enjoy helping people and using my voice to advocate for the public interest.

Right now I teach advanced law and politics at the University of Guelph as well as being a crown prosecutor, which is a definite challenge, but I love it because I'm bridging both of my passions at this point in my career.

Action Plan

- Prepare yourself for opportunity: My family is very hardworking and always valued education. They gave me everything they had, but I had to bridge the gap, so I worked, sometimes up to three jobs, while going to law school. Don't limit yourself. Create your own opportunities.

- Choose your own path: Be selective where you spend your time and efforts. Use your skills and focus on moving forward and progressing. Don't become stagnant in your career.

- Nurture your relationships: I didn't get here on my own.

I had help from my family, defense lawyers, Crowns, judges and colleagues.

I am constantly learning from those around me and I've been surrounded by a lot of strong women in my career who have given me poignant advice at critical points.

I truly value those relationships and they have been a major contributor for where I am now and where I'm going in the future.

Monitoring mental activity during game time can shed light on more than whether you can beat the bad guys

KIERON MONKS
life@metronews.ca

If you always lose at FIFA 2012, science has an excuse for you: Some brains are made for video game success and some are not.

Using subjects who did not play games regularly, researchers at the University of Illinois were able to predict who would excel at Space Fortress, a video game specially designed for studying cognitive research.

Using electric imaging, researchers assessed the strength of subjects' alpha brain waves, (associated with relaxation) and found these had accurately reflected improvements.

"By measuring your brain waves the very first time you play the game, we can predict how fast you'll learn over the next month," said postdoctoral researcher Kyle Mathewson.

The game was seen as a test of subjects' ability to perform complex tasks in general as part of a wider probe into brain structure. Successful players performed well in decision-making, attention and self-control, suggesting that alpha waves could be key to learning development.

"Ongoing studies show we can be trained to enhance alpha activity — and that this can have a positive effect on conditions such as attention deficit disorder (ADD)," Dr. Ole Jensen of Holland-based Donders Institute for Brain, Cognition and Behaviour told Metro.

"Alpha waves shut down irrelevant brain regions to stop distractions."

Still in the works

- Neurofeedback is a rapidly developing industry with clinics charging high fees to alter people's brainwaves. Jensen believes this is premature.
- "We don't yet know how strong an effect we can have, so it is a little misleading to sell the service."

Can you keep up?

Kyle Mathewson, postdoctoral researcher

rosereisman.com

This mushroom, spinach and goat cheese phyllo pie is similar to Spanikopita but is made in a pie pan. It's a wonderful main course and works equally well as a side dish. Serve it with a mesclun salad.

1. Preheat the oven to 350 F. Lightly coat a 9-inch pie pan with cooking spray

2. To make the filling, lightly coat a nonstick skillet with cooking spray. Add the oil and set over medium heat. Add the onion and sauté for 5 minutes or just until the onion begins to brown. Add the garlic and mushrooms and sauté for 6 minutes or until mushrooms are no longer wet. Stir in the spinach, basil and salt and pepper. Cook for 3 minutes. Remove from the heat.

3. Stir in the goat cheese and mozzarella and the dill, green onions, olives, breadcrumbs and egg. Stir until all the ingredients are well combined.

4. Layer 2 sheets of phyllo in the prepared pie pan, keeping the remaining phyllo sheets covered with a damp tea towel to prevent them from drying out. Leave the edges of the phyllo sheets hanging over the edge of the pan. Lightly coat with vegetable oil. Layer the remaining sheets on top, spraying every other sheet. Care-

Ingredients

- 2 tsp vegetable oil
- 1 cup finely chopped onion
- 2 tsp finely chopped garlic
- 3 cups sliced mushrooms
- 1/2 package frozen spinach, thawed, drained, chopped and squeezed dry (about 5 oz)
- 1/2 tsp dried basil
- 1/4 tsp each salt and pepper
- 1/2 cup each crumbled goat cheese and shredded low-fat mozzarella cheese
- 1/3 cup each chopped fresh dill, green onions and black olives
- 2 tbsp seasoned dry bread crumbs
- 1 egg
- 6 sheets phyllo pastry

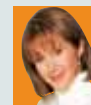

fully spoon the filling into the pie pan. Fold the phyllo sheets overtop to enclose and lightly coat with cooking spray.

5. Bake in the preheated oven for 25 minutes or until the phyllo is golden and the filling is completely heated through.

Puff Pastry Pissaladiere. For a quick dinner, make this tart-like dish

1. Heat oven to 425 F. Coat baking sheet with cooking spray. Unfold thawed sheet of puff pastry and set it on the prepared baking sheet.

2. Use paper towels to pat dry the roasted red peppers, removing as much moisture as possible without mashing the peppers. Cut the peppers into thin strips. Then arrange the peppers evenly over the pastry, spacing them so as to have enough to cover the tart. Then arrange the anchovies over the red peppers.

3. Season the tart with black pepper, then sprinkle the chopped olives evenly over the tart. Sprinkle Parmesan cheese evenly over everything.

4. Bake 15 minutes, or until

Eskimos fall short of 4th-quarter comeback

CFL. Edmonton backup QB nearly forces overtime vs. Alouettes

Matt Nichols came oh-so close to living a backup quarterback's dream.

The Edmonton second stringer went in for starter Kerry Joseph with his team trailing 20-4 to start the fourth quarter and came within a missed two-point convert of forcing overtime as the Montreal Alouettes prevailed 27-25 over the Eskimos on Sunday afternoon.

A win would have clinched a CFL playoff berth for Edmonton (7-10), which now must hope for either Hamilton (6-11) to lose Thursday against Toronto or the Eskimos to win on home turf over the rival Calgary Stampeders in their regular season finale on Friday night.

"It was one of those things that I came into the game when they had a big lead and they were running different defences than they were earlier, giving us a few holes, and I was just able to get a few of those balls down the middle," said Nichols.

"This team competed hard, we just turned it on a bit late. Now we've got one left that we have to win."

Nichols threw a pair of touchdown passes to Fred Stamps, including one with no time left on the clock, and another to Shamawd Chambers in 15 minutes of work that turned a comfortable Montreal lead into a cliff hanger.

But confusion on the final two-point convert attempt saw Nichols loft a ball to the back of the end zone where no receiver was close to making a catch.

"Matt did a phenomenal job," said coach Kavis Reed. "We knew that if we had some difficulty handling the pressure, a change of pace at quarterback would be the thing we wanted to do.

"We had a plan of what we needed to score and executed it pretty highly. It's unfortunate what happened at the end."

Anthony Calvillo threw touchdown passes to Bo Bowling and Ryan Bomben and backup quarterback Adrian McPherson ran one in for Montreal (11-6), which has secured first place in the East Division. They close with a meaningless game Saturday in Winnipeg.

The win was Marc Trestman's 59th in only five seasons, giving him a share of the team record for coaching victories with 1950s bench boss Peahead Walker.

Giants deliver knockout blow

World Series. San Francisco sweeps Detroit Tigers while slugger Sandoval claims MVP honours

Marco Scutaro singled home the tiebreaking run in the 10th inning, and the San Francisco Giants beat the Detroit Tigers 4-3 on Sunday night to complete a four-game sweep and win their second World Series title in three years.

Ryan Theriot, who went hitless for St. Louis in Game 7 of last year's Series, singled softly into right field off Phil Coke opening the 10th.

Brandon Crawford sacrificed, nearly bunting the ball past Coke. Angel Pagan struck out and Scutaro singled into short centre field as Theriot slid home ahead of Austin Jackson's throw.

Pablo Sandoval, who hit three homers in Game 1, was selected series MVP. He was 1 for 5 in Game 4, dropping his Series average to .500 (8 for 16).

Santiago Casilla got the final out of the ninth for the win, and Sergio Romo struck out the side in the 10th for his third save, freezing Triple Crown winner Miguel Cabrera with a called third strike to end it. The Giants ran out of the dugout and bullpen to celebrate between the mound and second base.

Of the 24 teams to take 3-0 series leads, 21 swept and three won in five games.

After watching Barry Zito, Madison Bumgarner and Ryan Vogelsong each allow one run or none in the first three games, Matt Cain gave up three runs and five hits in seven innings with five strikeouts and two walks.

Max Scherzer, pitching on nine days' rest, gave up three runs and seven hits in 6 1-3 innings, struck out eight and walked none.

Falcons stay perfect, fly higher than Eagles

Atlanta Falcons QB Matt Ryan, left, throws a pass while being chased by Jason Babin of the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday in Philadelphia. ROB CARR/GETTY IMAGES

Asante Samuel stared directly at his former team's sideline and started trash-talking right after the coin toss. By the fourth quarter, Samuel was dancing on the field between plays.

Matt Ryan made it easy for his loquacious teammate to gloat.

Ryan threw touchdown passes on Atlanta's first three possessions against the Eagles and new defensive co-ordinator Todd Bowles, and the Falcons remained the NFL's only unbeaten team with a convincing 30-17 win over Philadelphia on Sunday.

"We're 7-0 over here baby," Samuel said. "If I was over there now, they have to go to work."

The Falcons are 7-0 for the first time in the franchise's 47-year history, while the Eagles (3-4) lost after a bye for the first time in 14 games under coach Andy Reid since 1999.

"That was an embarrassing performance," Reid said. "I'm stating the obvious. We need to get better. I need to do a better job. This is fixable. We have the talent."

Ryan finished 22 of 29 for 262 yards and three TDs for his first win against his hometown team in three tries.

Michael Vick didn't turn the ball over for once, but he played so-so and failed to beat his former team in his second start against the Falcons since returning to the NFL in 2009.

Saints-Broncos

A dinged-up right thumb wasn't enough to throw Peyton Manning off his game, and to no one's surprise, neither was the New Orleans Saints' defence.

- Despite banging his throwing thumb on an opponent's helmet in the second quarter Sunday night, Manning passed for 305 yards and three scores, led a pair of 90-plus-yard touchdown drives and easily outplayed Drew Brees to lead the Denver Broncos to a 34-14 victory over the Saints.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

Give your body a rest. Use your brain to get things done. One way, of course, is to get others to do them for you and the art of persuasion will come easy to you today. You know just what to say.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

The Sun in your opposite sign of Scorpio means you have to accept the fact that others are in the driving seat at the moment. Why not go along for the ride? Who knows, it could be fun.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

You need to be honest with yourself about how far you have come and how far you still have to go to reach your goals. Changes have to be made and now is the best time to decide what they should be.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

There is no way you are going to realize your ambitions without help from other people, and what happens today will bring that fact home to you forcefully. It's time to be more of a team player.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Your understanding is such that you now accept that recent setbacks were not designed to destroy you but to toughen you up for the challenges ahead. Start making plans – and make sure they are big ones.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

You may need to be alone with your thoughts, and that's okay, but don't switch off from the world completely because there are things going on you need to be aware of. Put your phone on mute, but keep it turned on.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Travel and social activities are under good stars today but you are advised not to make any long-term plans – that is, more than seven days ahead – because things will change rapidly next week. For now though, have fun.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

You may be feeling on top of the world but something unexpected will bring you down to earth over the next 24 hours. It's no big deal but it is a reminder that change is the only constant in life.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

Mercury, planet of the mind, moves into your sign today, boosting your self-belief and making it easy to get motivated. However, long-term success depends on more than just confidence. Are your plans realistic and reachable?

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Stop worrying about what other people might think about you and start using your mind to get ahead in the world. You have everything going for you now and only doubt can keep you separated from success.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

The bigger your dreams the more you will need assistance from people who have made the same or similar journeys before you. What can you learn from their mistakes so you don't have to make your own?

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

People in positions of authority are well disposed toward you at the moment and if you are smart you will make the most of it. Let them know what you can do.
